CONTROL OF THE DISTRIBUTION AND SALE OF ARMS AND AMMUNITION IMPORTED FROM ABROAD.

The Government of India have adopted for Part A and C States a scheme for the control of the distribution and sale of arms and ammunition imported into India from abroad. According to this scheme, monthly quotas of imported arms are allocated among the part A and C States. The Government of India are considering the extension of this scheme to Part B States, which includes Mysore also.

In the meantime, licensed dealears and individual licensees in this State may obtain their requirements of arms from importing firms in Part A and C States to whom quotas are allotted. Particulars showing the quotas of arms allotted to the firms in Part A and C States have been sent to the District Magistrates of Districts and the dealers and licensees in the State may obtain the information from the District Magistrates.

The procedure in this regard is briefly as follows:

Importing firms in Part A. and C. States are required to report particulars of their monthly imports to the Government of India. On receipt of complete information, quotas are allocated each month to Part A. and Part C. States. These allocations run into four well-defined periods:—

(1) During the first period, the arms are available for sale to dealears or license-holders in the States to which they are allocated. (2) During the second period, the unlifted quotas become available for sale in the States in which the importing firms are situated. (3) During the third period the arms which remain over from the first two periods become available for sale to dealers in all the States including Part B States and also to individual licensees within the State of import who hold purchase permits in the States in which the importing firm is situated and (4) During the fourth period the arms still remaining unsold are made available for sale in any State in India including Part B States without purchase permits.

Thus the licensed dealers and individual licensees in the State may obtain their requirements of arms from importing firms in Part A and C States during the third and fourth periods of allocation. Prospective purchasers may approach the importing firms mentioned in all allocation orders, copies of which have been sent to the District Magistrates.

Such of those persons who want to import arms into the State should hold licenses issued by this Government under the Indian Arms Act and Rules.
